E-government is presently already in place in a number of European countries, the United States, and in some Asian countries, such as Singapore. In these countries, the citizens are already enjoying the improved services that e-government can offer. They are able to conduct their transactions on-line with the various government offices. They can also participate in public biddings of government projects and procurement of goods and services. One aspect that taxpayers can look forward to is the electronic filing of tax returns.

In this regard, the Bureau shall implement a number of flagship programs throughout the remaining six months of 2006, which shall enable us to attain, or even exceed, our collection target. As part of our Integrity Development Action Plan to uphold the ideals of good governance within the Bureau, we have installed an e-Complaint system, whereby taxpayers can access the BIR website to log in their complaints against erring BIR personnel. Insofar as cumulative collections are concerned, revenues for the period covering January-June 2006 reached P 318.4 Billion. Compared to its collection performance for January-June 2005, the Bureau was thus able to register an increase of 21.9%, equivalent to P 57.4 Billion. Notwithstanding a decline in collections from T-bills and T-bonds, the Bureau's substantial collections from its operations once again successfully offset this modest decrease. Compared to collections for the month of June 2005, this translates to a P 11.5 Billion, or 29.6% increase in revenues. While the Bureau experienced a modest decrease in the collection from T-bills/T-bonds/Travel Tax, collections from the Bureau's operations, however, registered an increase of P 11.7 Billion, marking a phenomenal heretofore unachieved month-on-month growth rate of 32.2%. • Audit the withholding tax compliance of the Top 10,000 Corporations and Government Agencies, including GOCCs. First, we will strengthen the use of business intelligence, and embark upon the data matching of income payments of withholding agents against the reported income of the concerned recipients.

In addition, we will investigate into its history to see if the broker is a safe choice for traders. The broker claims to offer competitive prices and conditions that allow its client base to trade in safe and favorable trading conditions. In addition, it also claims to provide its clients with robust portfolio management tools, industry-leading technology, a wide array of order types, market-making incentive programs, and cutting-edge security. FOREX BUCKET SHOPS This type of scam is more refined and requires more careful preparation, but the potential profit of the scammer is also higher. In this case, they create a full-fledged platform that duplicates the functionality of leading Forex brokers. The trader does not play on the world interbank market, but with other traders registered only on their fraudulent site, or even with the platform itself. While it is true that the Philippine economy was on the rise at the start of the Marcos administration, official government data of the country's gross domestic product and GDP per capita show that the economy was also already falling during the latter part of the Marcos regime. The prices are still based on the objective considerations of demand and supply from a worldwide movement. Even the most significant players like central banks can't move the prices at will. As a currency trader, you need to monitor the exchange rates and currencies.

Since not all industries could be covered in the law's listing, there were requests for Congressional amendments or for a liberal interpretation that would include related industries which were far from basic. When the tax or any portion thereof appears to be unjustly or excessively assessed; or when the administration and collection costs involved do not justify the collection of the amount due. The ROR System, however, precluded the direct supervision of the Bureau over the City and Municipal Treasurers, considering that they were not under the employ of the Bureau, and were thus beyond the Bureau's administrative control and jurisdiction. As such, the practice of enlisting the assistance of City and Municipal Treasurers which was observed for fifty-six years, was dispensed with when the Bureau fielded its first Revenue Collection Agents in 1960. Posted at the various City and Municipal Halls throughout the country, the Collection Agents took over the task of receiving tax payments and issuing Official Receipts, from the City and Municipal Treasurers. Forty years ago, with a growing taxpayer population and limited resources, the Philippines' Bureau of Internal Revenue, adopted the self-assessment system when Republic Act No. 2343 was enacted in 1959. The Act provides that the "... tax imposed by this Title shall be paid at the time the return is filed. Such tax shall be paid by the person subject thereto."

Standout Offers From the Plus500 Trading Platform:

Non-resident aliens are further classified into non-resident alien engaged in trade or business and non-resident alien not engaged in trade or business while corporations are sub-classified into resident foreign corporation and non-resident foreign corporation. However, this paper will focus its discussion only on the income tax policies and tax rates imposed on the income of non-resident aliens and foreign corporations as well as the value added tax system. This law provided that no foreign or any domestic firm, not a Philippine national or with foreign equity more than 30% shall do business in the Philippines without prior authority from BOI. The tax returns having been filed, it is processed and subjected to the necessary desk audit or field audit, if warranted, of the taxpayer's books of accounts and other records. Such audits, sometimes result to additional taxes payable, referred to as "deficiency taxes". This process may thus be referred to as "assessment through enforcement", in contrast to "self-assessment". Through the years, tax authorities have explored various approaches to continually enhance the effectiveness of their collection systems. Two days ago, the Bureau conducted a one-day seminar for the chief accountants and financial officers of various national government agencies, to brief them on the salient points of the recently-signed Memorandum of Agreement between the DOF, the DBM and the Commission on Audit. Once fully implemented, the MOA will dramatically increase the effectiveness of the withholding tax system since it will be applied to the country's largest withholding agent – the government.

A.3.The Payment Order/Confirmation Receipt (PO/CR) System.In 1982, the Revenue Tax Receipt , was replaced by the Payment Order , to avoid confusion. The term "Revenue Tax Receipt" was actually a misnomer, the RTR being a mere payment order, and not a tax receipt.

A major effort in the Bureau's proactive campaign to combat tax evasion was system automation. The CAATTS automated and simplified the audit process and increased audit efficiency. This program, supported by the United States through the Millennium Challenge Corporation, enhanced the audit capabilities and technical skills of the tax auditors under a computerized accounting system environment. In line with the

Strategy Map, the BIR is reengineering its core processes of registration, declaration or filing of returns, payment and audit, and enforcement. The smart, efficient, integrity-oriented automation of these processes will minimize, if not eliminate, unnecessary human intervention which is susceptible to corruption. Thus, the BIR is currently undertaking an Enhanced Electronic Tax Information System Project in order to upgrade its current Integrated Tax Systems into a unified, web-based automated solution. This means trying your trading plan against long-term historical data from the market to see how it will perform. Although leverage can amplify your profits if the market moves in your favor, it can also significantly reduce or wipe out your trading capital if your projection is wrong. Before your broker gives you a loan to trade with, you need to show good faith by depositing a percentage of the required capital, while he lends you the rest. This percentage deposit is called the margin and it is what gives you leverage to trade higher than your own capital could have afforded you. Similar to a stop-loss order, a take-profit forex scam order tells the broker to close the trade when the price of the underlying asset crosses a predetermined stop price. If you are going long, you set the stop price above the current market price of the asset; and if you are shorting the asset, you set the stop price below the current market price of the asset. If you are risking 50% of your capital on a trade, and set a stop loss at that level, and the market goes against you, your loss is very high, and it would take more winning trades to recover back the capital lost. While the volume of E-Commerce of Internet transactions in the Philippines is still miniscule compared with other countries, the risks posed by the Internet to the tax system are real. The government must focus on how to address these risks in a spirit of collective co-operation rather than in an atmosphere of competition. Governments and businesses must undertake an integrated review on the impact of the Internet on tax systems, on legislation and administrative regulations, on implementation and audit practices and on international taxation arrangements. The government in general, and the DOF and the BIR in particular, have thus far not made any formal pronouncement regarding the specifics of taxation of electronic commerce. Existing tax laws, regulations and circulars have not been amended to provide for the particular tax treatment applicable to E-commerce. 8792 or the E-Commerce Act, several legislators have actually raised a number of taxation issues. Nevertheless, the legislators deemed it fit not to introduce tax matters in the bill for to do so would be like rewriting a whole set of codal laws over something which has not yet fully evolved in the Philippines. Section 27 of the Act directs all government offices to recognize electronic transactions and to transact government business and/or perform governmental functions using electronic data messages or electronic documents. The same provision likewise instructs all government agencies to adopt regulations to carry out this purpose within two years from the effectivity of the E-Commerce Law. Financial Institution TaxThe current gross receipt tax system imposed on banks and financial institutions does not satisfy the basic concept of feasibility in tax administration and sufficiency of tax collection from this sector.
